Lincoln Academy Student Laureate

Sophomore Heather Reichert of Lincoln was selected as the Lincoln College recipient of the Lincoln Academy Student Laureate Award.

Reichert, the daughter of Gary and Barbara Reichert, received the honor during an award ceremony in Springfield. Also participating in the ceremony were L.C. President Jack Nutt, Gov. Jim Edgar and Brooks Davis, chairman of the Lincoln College Board of Trustees.

"Heather has been a very positive addition to Lincoln College," President Nutt said. "We are proud to have had her with us and are delighted that she received this recognition."

The program which honored Reichert began in 1975 to honor overall excellence by students in Illinois colleges. The Lincoln Academy is a private, non-profit organization to honor Illinois citizens whose achievements have brought honor to the state.

Winners of the Student Laureate Awards are chosen by the chief executive officers of their schools on the basis of academic achievement, extracurricular activities and overall contribution to their institutions.

Lincoln College is the state's only two-year college included in the program due to its original charter as Lincoln University, then a four-year institution.

"I've capsized my life so many times in the past with this thing of burning my bridges and entering new territory that I'm beginning to wonder whether in fact I've really been running away from something that it would be better to turn around and join hands with. And in this case for me it has to do with love and the possibility of real family. Something has to be valuable to you. And if it's a relationship, then you have to take care of it. There comes a point where you have to honor the relationship or forget about it and just go nuts. But I've already gone nuts. I don't have to do that again."

As is the case every year, lapses occurred in the coverage of events. As a result, several of the features of the previous book could not be included in this volume. If your group or event was not covered to your satisfaction, the yearbook staff and the advisor sincerely apologize.

The yearbook would not have published without the assistance of:

the Athletic Department
Jerry Dellinger
Bill Buffington

Brayton Danner
Gina Pritts

And special recognition must be given to Tami Aumann. It is largely due to the singular effort of Tami that there is a yearbook, as she spent hour upon hour attending events and taking pictures. Many persons said they would take pictures for the yearbook; Tami was the exceptionally responsible one who followed through on what she said she would do. Thank you, Tami!
